

Four Part Experience

Crafting Collaborations: Less Talk, More Action

Building the talent and skill to design and deliver strategic collaborations.

Four Part Experience

Kiikstart grew tired of people talking at conferences about the need for businesses to collaborate together, but no action on how to build the skill in people to make it happen. So, we have decided to provide a solution to those businesses wanting to undertake a robust and creative exploration into the world of collaborations.

What Is It About?

Crafting Collaborations is made up of 4 x 1 hr workshop sessions that will deliver key outcomes such as:

- > allowing businesses greater understanding of what collaborations are;
- > identifying if they are ready to be part of a collaborative partnership;
- > learning the process of designing and delivering a collaboration;
- > knowing how to proceed when they are ready to collaborate.

Why Is This Different?

This workshop looks at collaborations from idea through to implementation.

It's great to talk about how wonderful collaborations are for business but this workshop will identify if the business is ready for collaborations and next steps in terms of practical strategies and tactics.

Who Is It For?

Participants who work in roles where they are responsible for creating and fostering relationships for business development and innovating the current service and product offering.

Why Be Part of Crafting Collaborations?

- > They want someone who is a facilitator and a designer, who is able to look at their collaboration opportunities from a new perspective.
- > They want training and education that is modern, supportive and pushes thinking to another level to get a better outcome.
- > They want real conversations and outcomes that can come from being part of a diverse and supportive community.

Takeaway Action to Deliver Outcomes

Each session will have take away actions and Q and A's to complete in between which adds extra value to the sessions.

By the end of fourth session participants will be able to design a practical plan for collaborations based on existing talent, skill gaps and capability.

Cost

$850 per participant exc GST.

How Is It Delivered?

Note this costing is based on a public program utilising technology that allows us to work face to face and will include Kiikstart as Facilitator and four participants.

If you wish to have Kiikstart facilitate one on one or in-house with your team, please email us at enquiries@kiikstart.com to discuss costings and best approach.
